Response to Amendment

The amendment filed on August 12, 2008 has been fully considered but are not deemed persuasive in view of the new grounds of rejection.

- Claims 26 has been amended.
- New claim 27 has been added.
- Claim 26-27 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 26-27, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Taki Kazuya Japanese Publication Number (JP11215175, hereinafter "Taki") in view of Ono et al (6742163), hereinafter "Ono"

Regarding claims 26 and 27, Taki teaches A portable electronic viewer system (abstract and fig. 1) comprising:

Art Unit: 2456

a portable server (fig. 1, 200) extracting (retrieve) sizes of a character's fonts from a data file containing at least either images or characters (abstract and paragraphs 61-64 blocks or frames of the document file are retrieved and transmitted to portable viewer), creating a plurality of layered intermediate data files from the data file (document information is divided into blocks and frames. See paragraphs 61-64) in accordance (with the extracted size of the character's fonts, and transmitting the intermediate data files in a hierarchical order (translated paragraphs 34, lines 1-5 and paragraph 37, lines 3-5. See also paragraphs 61-64); and a portable viewer (fig. 1, 300) displaying one of said intermediate data files transmitted from said portable server every time the one of the intermediate data files is transferred (receiving transmitted characters or images (document information) one-page amount by one-page amount and displaying the information)(see also translated paragraphs 34 and 72).

Although Taki shows substantial features of the claimed invention, Taki does not explicitly show extracting sizes of characters fonts. Nonetheless this feature is well known in the art and would have been an obvious modification to the system disclosed by Taki as evidenced by Ono.

In analogous art, Ono discloses extracting sizes of a character fonts (Fig. 23 and 24 show an example of representation of character strings extracted from a document page (see also the abstract). Given these teachings, a person of ordinary skill in the art would have readily recognized the desirability and advantages of modifying the system of Taki so as to extract specified characters from a data file and presenting them in a hierarchically displayable format.

Conclusion

ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
